A SELECTION OF CURRENT AND UPCOMING EXHIBITIONS BY ARTISTS FROM THE GALLERY

HANS WAANDERS AND MARTIN BRANDSMA, ZII-PRRRIH

23 March 2014 - 20 April 2014

Location: Galerie Wit, Hamelakkerlaan 38, 6703 EK Wageningen

Zii-prrrih refers to a kingfisher and a gray shrike, birds that are the subject of works by Hans Waanders and Martin Brandsma: For example 'Topography of the Bird' (Hans Waanders), 'Absent', 7 portraits of great gray shrikes, based on the collection of Naturalis' (Martin Brandsma).

Waanders approached a kingfisher as a metaphor for the life of an artist: balancing on the edge of existence, individualistic and exotic. Brandsma considers collecting and displaying information about the Great Grey shrike as a creative process.

MARTIN BRANDSMA, IDENTITIES

1 April- 1 June 2014.

Location: Dutch Drawing, Grotestraat 9, Diepenheim.

Martin Brandsma made more than 200 drawings of tail feathers of 'Great Grey Shrikes' – a rare bird in the Netherlands – and processed it in the Black Code Project BCP 2013. Free entrance.

In the beginning of April, Martin Brandsma will be a guest of Vroege Vogels, Radio 1.

ELISABETH TONNARD

on February 20, 2014 in the Torpedo Theatre, Amsterdam The Little Hans 2013 was awarded to Elisabeth Tonnard. "No-one else can enliven the space between photos as she does".

"Photos have tentacles. Like brain cells they can interconnect and form thoughts. Not all photos have this effect. Aesthetic photos almost never do. Aesthetic photos are hermetically beautiful, self-sufficient in their contentment. Trivial photos are all the more in touch with their surroundings. You place them next to each other, behind each other, and suddenly a thought darts from the tentacles of the interconnected brain cells.

Words give shape to thoughts. The process is very subtle. Too much interpretation and the thought becomes dull. Too little interpretation and the thought is vacant. Elisabeth Tonnard has crafted thirty books to date. In her books the accompanying words raise the photos to poetic heights. To the place where life is understood but not explained." (quotation Jury report)

27 Feb – 14 Jun 2014

Thanks for Writing Show. The shelf curated by Victor Sira. A show on texts as art.

Location: 601 Artspace, New York City.
